Cyrus Steinsultz, Principal at Horace Mann, Retires After 45 Years' Teaching

After forty-five years in the school room, Cyrus Steinsultz, principal of the Horace Mann school. has decided to retire from the teaching profession.

Early in September 1911, Mr. Steinsultz walked into a small rural school in Saline county to begin his first work as a teacher. Twenty-eight anxious children were present early that morning to greet and make their first acquaintance with the new teacher. That first year was a pleasant one, with the teacher learning a great deal along with the children.

The second year, there was little time to take notes. Sixty pupils were enrolled in all grades from one to seven inclusive. To compensate for this heavy teaching load, Mr. Steinsultz was paid a salary of $45 per month.

After teaching four years in the rural schools of Saline county, Mr. Steinsultz was called to Carrier Mills where he taught four yearstwo years as a sixth grade teacher, and two years as principal The second year as principal was one week shorter than usual because he received a very important invitation to join the Armed Forces and go to France.

The Highway Program

Editorial - BY BRUCE BIOSSAT Almost a year has passed since Congress voted the 27.5-billion-dollar highway program designed to give the country a 41,000-mile network of superhighways. It's a good time to see what's been accomplished.

By the height of the summer tourist season only some 200 miles of this nationwide web will have been laid down. But thereafter things are expected to pick up gradually-according to plan.

The goal for 1961, four years from now, is 8,000 miles. The remaining four-fifth of the network will be built over an additional 12-year period.

Sixteen years is a long time, especially when we know that the U. S. population, and with it the traffic volume, will be rising at a steep rate in that interval.

We can hope that when the great system is finished it will still be adequate for the load it must bear. But we cannot help but have mishave been built only to be saddled with a congestion that makes them | you dams. The White House was | the clogged traffic. seem instantly out of date.

The importance of this was emphasized by the impressive figures of eight million club women in the United States, of the eleven million throughout the world and the fact that there are actually more potential votes among women than men.

Mrs. J. L. Miller, 24th district president, commended Mrs. Damron of the thoroughness of her report and added very little to it.

Miss Pemberton, in her report as historian, was brief, referring to parts already covered by others and adding only that which was needed to make the history complete. Noteworthy were the addition of ten new members to the club, the broadening of the club's membership, making it more truly representative of the women of its city; the special meetings, speakers and philanthropies, including awards and scholarships in which the club has participated. There was a memorial service for Mrs. Carl Corrie and the announcement that a memorial for her has been added to the library bookshelf.

Mrs. C. E. Wing presented the past president's pin to Mrs. Hill expressing the club's appreciation for her outstanding service as president. Mrs. Hill responded with an expression of pleasure in her association with the members as their president and her gratitude for the cooperation given to her during her presidency.

Acknowledgments, introductions and recognitions were extended. Mrs. R. C. # Conservation Farming Pays, Studies Show

Studies carried on in Illinois clearly indicate that conservation farming pays the farmer well for his efforts. Dr. Elmer Sauer, Agricultural Economist, U. S. Department of Agriculture, in a talk made at Farm and Home Week in Urbana, Ill., last year, said that "Money spent on conservation is a wise investment." Many cooperators with the Saline County Soil Conservation District have secured results on their farms which support Dr. Sauer's statement.

Based on 1945 farm prices the ten year average net earnings of farms throughout the state with conservation farming plans were $6.26 an acre a year higher than the earnings on similar farms not having such plans. This difference amounts to about $1,000 a year for a 160 acre farm.

Based on similar studies farmers in the Crab Orchard Lake watershed with conservation farming plans spent an average of $38.47 per acre for conservation measures, including soil treatment, which resulted in an increase of 18 bushels three more "live leads" that would per acre in corn yields and increased the net farm income per acre in the amount of $10.59.

Now-a simple guide tells you which grade of gasoline your car needs_ to give you all the power and mileage built into your engine without paying for octanes you don't need!

Today, you-like millions of other motorists -may be puzzled about the number of different grades of gasoline being sold-and trying to decide just which grade your car needs.

To clarify this situation, Socony Mobil engineers have developed a simple Mobilgas Grade Guide that quickly tells you whether your particular car needs our highest octane gasoline-Mobilgas Special-or Mobilgas R at regular price. You'll find this guide at your friendly Mobil dealer's-and reproduced here.

This year both our grades have been boosted again in octane. Mobilgas Special fully meets the power requirements of 1957 high-compression cars.

Mobilgas R today is equal in octane to the premium fuels of just a few years ago-can actually be used by 1 out of every 3 car owners now buying premium-priced gasoline!

Both grades contain MC4.., an exclusive additive formula that improves engine efficiency and saves gasoline four ways!

We sincerely believe that if you follow this guide, you will get all the power and mileage built into your engine-without paying for gasoline octanes your car doesn't need. See your friendly Mobil dealer.

Area Group Plans 6-Day Hike in Great Smokies

A group of Southern Illinois hikers is getting ready to take off June 8 for a six day trip through the Great Smoky Mountains.

From the take-off point at Newfound Gap the group will hike the old Appalachian Indian foot trail along the mile high crest of the mountains for a distance of 40 miles to Fontanna Gap. They will carry packs-cooking and sleeping along the trail. This is said to be one of the most spectacular hiking trails in America. On another section of the trail last year, the group tossed stones out into space and watched them fall noiselessly into the tops of clouds hundreds of feet below. Wild flame azaleas, laurel and rhododendron bloom in profusion and often scent whole mountain sides with their fragrance.

The hike is being organized and led by Wyman Presley, Makanda, Illinois, founder and president of the Upper Fortians Explorers

A few more hikers can be taken. Any one interested should contact Mr. Presley. The trip usually costs a total of about $15. Last year 23 made the hike, this year about 30 are expected to go.
